Opis / Description

Epinephelus Marginatus

100 cm

The dusky grouper is a large marine fish present in shallow European waters from the Bay of Biscay, the Mediterranean Sea and north Africa. It is a solitary fish and an ambush hunter, preferring a habitat full of nooks and crannies to hide in while waiting for prey. It feeds primarily on crustaceans, gastropods and fish. The species is highly valued for its taste and is a popular game fish amongst marine anglers.
