Florescent colors and details utilized for increased visibility to the fish

Allows lure to travel up the line when a fish is hooked, thus increasing the hook to land ratio

Black nickel finish for increased corrosion resistance and reduced visibility of the hook

High carbon steel treble for light tackle applications where strength is required while maintaining excellent hook penetration. Y configuration on the treble ensures perfect alignment on the body of the lure for increased hookup ratio

49 strands of high carbon steel wire, twined, braided and coated with a strong black copolymer

3D scanned details of the actual fish combined with photo print and strike triggering scent

Blend of amino acids, fats, and proteins that triggers feeding and aggression
