The Real Evolution's distinctive fins maintain a horizontal position for a long time, while its firm, hard material creates a water displacement and subtle vibrations to entice the target to bite. It can be used with a variety of rigs, including no-sinker rigs and jig head rigs. It has been extremely popular on Lake Biwa as a heavy drop-shot rig.

It has also been highly praised in the Hokkaido rockfish scene for targeting rockfish using caissons. Following this trend, the new soft material color lineup for rockfish fishing has been released!

We recommend using both hard and soft materials depending on the situation.
